ANTI-BULLYING WEEK

Good Morning Picasso, this week has been Anti-Bullying week. Anti-Bullying Week is organised by a group of charities dedicated to tackling bullying, called the Anti-Bullying Alliance.

You can watch the Anti-Bullying Alliance 2020 Campaign video below.

Your task for this Art lesson is to create an Anti-Bullying poster.

Here's a few facts from Newsround to help you along:

WHAT IS BULLYING?

Bullying comes in many different forms, including mental, physical and emotional. It could be as simple as ignoring someone in your class just because everybody else does, posting mean comments about someone online, or sharing a joke at someone else's expense.

VOICE NOTES

Voice notes can be used to send mean recorded messages to other children. Because they are not written, and sometimes disappear in certain apps as soon as they are played, some people mistakenly think they don't 'count' as bullying. Sending a mean voice recording or note is just as serious as any other kind of bullying.

CYBERBULLYING

Cyberbullying is the general term that covers all online bullying. Whether on social media, in the comments section of a forum, or in any online messages or posts.

ONLINE GAMING

Online games can be fun, but when things get competitive sometimes people can cross the line into being cruel or abusive in the game.
